THE GOLDEN MAXIM.

BY THE AUTHOR OF "JEST AND EARNEST."

Mr. John Richardson was one of the most respected of London's citizens. He had arrived young in the metropolis, very foot-sore, and with five and ninepence in his pocket. In the course of thirty years he had increased the five and ninepence to fifty thousand pounds. This was generally considered clever; but in truth, the man had no genius in his composition.—The lack was more than compensated for by the possession of that valuable quality called prudence. He was slow, but sure; dull, but industrious; short seeing, but sharp-eyed within his ken. He passed through life acquiring few ideas, but many guineas. He began ignorant; he began poor, and he ended rich.

Mr. John Richardson, at the age of 60, found himself retired from business, a widower, with one son. Alfred, the son, was a spirited young man. He despised trade and tradesmen, and particularly despised the tradesman, his father. He owned to a very dim notion of the East end of London, but paraded his intimate knowledge of the West. His associates were entirely aristocratic. Lord Cheroot, Sir Edward Allright, and the Hon. Tom Daredevil were his sworn friends. It was rather an expensive friendship certainly, for amongst them they borrowed of him something like a hundred pounds a month, not one farthing of which they made even a show of returning. But he had his money's worth in praise. They assured him that his spirit, his wit, his good sense, were something extraordinary and for a citizen almost miraculous. To be sure there was a manner, an air, a something only to be acquired by companionship with persons of birth; but he had improved greatly in this respect they said, and would in time be perfect. All this was averred to his face, and behind his back their remarks were, I doubt not, the same—that is, unless Lord Cheroot, Sir Edward Allright, and the Honorable Tom Daredevil were swindling scoundrels, which as they belonged to the aristocracy is not likely.

One evening Mr. John Richardson, that respectable, elderly, well-to-do individual, was taken suddenly ill. He went to bed, and never rose again. Just before his death he called for his son Alfred, and taking his hand affectionately, uttered these words in a broken voice.—

"Son Alfred, I am about to die, and before I do so I want to say a few words as I have always made it a rule to do everything in a business-like manner. I leave you more than 50,000 pounds all got honestly. There is something else I shall leave you, almost as valuable. Attached by a green silk ribbon to the parchment on which is written my will you will find a sealed paper, containing the wisest sentence ever put together. By acting in the spirit of that maxim I made all my money, and by acting in it you may use well the money I made. I'm not much of a philosopher, son Alfred, but I say that all a man need know is contained in that maxim. Do not take it only in its vulgar interpretation: it applies to every situation in life, and if people understood it better they wouldn't be such fools. As you despise or venerate my maxim, so will you fail or prosper."

Soon after pronouncing these words the old gentleman expired.

At the proper time the will was pronounced and read. Attached to it, sure enough, by a green silk ribbon was a small sealed paper, on the back of which was written in round text, "The Golden Maxim." The anxiety was intense as the man in authority broke the seal and opened the mysterious paper. With a loud clear voice he gave forth the contents, which were as follows:

YOU MUST PAY THE BEST PRICE IF YOU WANT THE BEST ARTICLE.

At this strange end of their expectations the auditors were variously affected. Some laughed, some whistled, some were angry, but not one certainly felt the least respect either for the maxim or the eccentric maxim giver.

Alfred, for whose especial benefit the seal had been broken, did not effect to conceal his contempt. As soon as the company had departed, and he was alone he soliloquized thus:

"Well, this is pleasant! The old but must not only bore me with his musty maxim; but render me ridiculous before my friends! As for the fifty thousand pounds, I'm obliged to him there; but I don't want his narrow-minded posthumous advice how to use it and conduct myself in the world. These slow-goers are always so ready with their counsel—and a confounded deal more ready than welcome! I can take care of myself or I'm mistaken."

The first thing he did to show that he could take care of himself, was to sell the old house and the old furniture, and take a residence in a more fashionable situation which he immediately set about furnishing. But here one of his peculiarities came into operation. In spite of his being foolishly extravagant he had a great notion of bargaining; so he went to a cheap establishment and purchased his furniture; and proudly did he chuckle when he saw the shining mahogany, the brilliant carpets, the resplendent gilding, and thought how little money he had given in return for these comforts and luxuries. It was not long, however, before the shining mahogany went to pieces, the brilliant carpets faded and wore out, and the resplendent gilding peeled off.—"Humph!" exclaimed Alfred, musing; "daddy was right certainly here. As far as mere buying and selling went he knew something, though he was an ignoramus on other points. Yes, I suppose in trade the cheapest things are the dearest.—"You must pay the best price if you want the best article."

He now gave himself up entirely to the society of his somewhat loose but well-born associates. Notoriety was the object of his existence. He wished to rank amongst the first rakes of the day, and become celebrated for breaking policemen, driving over old women, and so on; but either he had less spirit or more sense than the rest, for in drunkenness, folly, brutality, and vice they went generally beyond him. Whilst their names were known far and wide, and their deeds were fondly imitated, he was known only as a third-rate genius, and more an imitator himself than an original worthy of imitation. He retired from the field considerably worse in pocket and constitution. "Alas," said he, "there was more in that fantastic maxim than I suspected. It does not apply to trade only. I was willing to purchase notoriety, and find, unhappily, that the first quality of that commodity costs more than I can afford.—It was foolish to wish to obtain it; but more foolish to expect to obtain it cheaply.—Yes; you must pay the best price if you want the best article."

He had now bidden farewell unto his worthy companions, and resolved to pursue a better path. Love entirely occupied his thoughts. He selected a beautiful, accomplished and amiable girl, and thought that if he could induce her to become his wife, happiness would be his portion forever. But she was not easily won. There were points in his conduct which she wished to see altered before she could choose him before all others. These concessions he was not exactly inclined to make; and there was Mary Tembus, a very nice girl, who was quite ready to have him just as he was. He married Mary Tembus. Six months after marriage she ran off with Ensign Jerkins. "Ah!" sighed Alfred, "what an error did I commit. It lost a charming creature from idleness and pride. In proportion to the pain of acquisition so would have been the pleasure of possession.—You must pay the best price if you want the best article."

He had arrived at a time of life when love generally yields to ambition. Alfred determined to become great, and great as a philosopher. He would examine into the nature of man and the constitution of society, and endeavor to leave the world wiser and better than he found it. He studied—he meditated—he wrote—he published; but the course of his studies and meditations was very prudently and daintily in accordance with popular notions, whence it happened that the books he wrote and published were somewhat trite and common-place. He gained no reputation as a philosopher, but he lost none as a man. Truth was not in his compositions, and, consequently, defamation and abuse were not in the criticism on them. "I see clearly," said he, "that philosophic fame and the world's love are incompatible with each other. Every man who greatly benefits his fellow creatures is hated and despised whilst living by the majority of those he benefits.—The immortality of every great benefactor has been purchased dearly indeed. You must pay the best price if you want the best article."

His hair was by this time beginning to grow gray, and the "old gentlemanly vice" stirred him exceedingly. "I will make money," exclaimed he; "true, I have already some thousands, but a wise man should consider these merely as seed to produce a plentiful crop. I am not young enough to enter trade regularly, but I will speculate. That is the way to make fortunes in a few years."

Accordingly he bought shares in Joint Stock Companies. He became a director of the "Dover and Calais Tunnel Company;" he held largely in the "Steam Balloon Company;" he was greatly concerned in the "Oxy-hydrogen Gas Street Lighting Company." Bull, bear, scrip, premium, were familiar words. He thought, he dreamed, of nought but speculation—of shares going down and getting up in the market—of paid up and unpaid-up capital.

But commercial matters, even the most promising, are uncertain. "The Dover and Calais Tunnel Company," "The Steam Balloon Company," "The Oxy-hydrogen Gas Street Lighting Company," and all the other companies went successively to the dogs. A few knowing ones became astonishingly rich; but Mr. Alfred Richardson was not a knowing one, and lost all he had in the world—Some must suffer that others may enjoy; such is the tendency of civilization.

Mr. Richardson retired to a garret in the neighborhood of Clerkenwell to meditate on his fortune seeking. He came to the conclusion that wealth is most certainly procured by industry and self-denial, and that here, as elsewhere, you must pay the best price if you want the best article.

He had managed to preserve from the wreck of his property just enough to exist upon, and he employed his time chiefly in walking about, and viewing with unavailing regret those places where he had formerly exercised influence. But whether this had a bad effect on his spirits, or from whatever cause it might proceed, his declining health gradually became worse, until at last he was unable to stir from his room. His old and severely-punished steed, however, once more tempted him. He could not prevail on himself to call in a proper medical adviser, which any man but a fool will always do, even if he pawn his only coat for the purpose. Mr. Richardson availed himself of the services of Mr. Abraham Solomons, who assured him, by advertisement in the newspapers, that he was not only the cheapest, but the cleverest, surgeon in London. Mr. Abraham Solomons gave him some hope of recovery; but, finding that he got no better, he changed his mind, and declared the case hopeless.

"Mrs. Dickenson," said our unfortunate hero, "I am dying. You have been a kind landlady, and shall have all I possess. I am, and have been, a victim to my contempt for a noble maxim. Oh! Mrs. Dickenson, take warning by my sad example, and ever believe that you must pay the best price if—"

His voice failed—he fell back on the pillow a corpse.

As through life he understood not the golden maxim, so in death he was unable to pronounce it.

MORAL.

The earth yields nothing to one who refuses to labor. Whatever the object of your pursuit, you must give an equivalent; if that object be valuable, your offering must be in proportion: you must pay the best price if you want the best article.

From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

Nineteen days later from Canton.

The barque Florida, from Canton, whence she sailed on the 19th of May, stranded on Tuesday upon the Bragantino Shoals, where she soon went to pieces, the valuable cargo being totally lost. Her letter bag, was brought up yesterday by Mr. Bush, the supercargo. The barque was owned by Messrs Hathaway of New Bedford, and consigned to Grinnell, Mott & Co. Vessel insured at New Bedford—cargo at Canton and New York.

Her cargo is represented as being worth about $200,000, consisting, according to the linguist's report, of 573 chests, 2195 half chests young hyson tea; 285 chests, 6 half chests hyson skin tea and Twankay; 11 chests gunpowder; 14 do imperial; 275 pieces pongees; 6000 crapo shawls; 333 boxes rhubarb; 100 boxes fire crackers; 100 piculs cassia.

The vessel struck the shoals at half past one o'clock on Wednesday, and was abandoned at 8 o'clock the same evening.

The schooner Birdato, Capt. Cranmer, of Tuckerton, N. J. took off the crew, and rendered them every assistance in his power.

The only part of the loss which falls upon the underwriters in this city is $40,000 upon the cargo, insured in the Safety office.

Mr. Bush states that there was an outbreak at Canton on day the barque sailed, on account of which she was hurried away, without knowing exactly the nature of the commotion, but it was apprehended that fighting between the Chinese and the English would immediately ensue. Several British vessels were drawn up in positions to bombard Canton, should hostilities recommence.

A letter from Canton, dated May 16, says that two thirds of the inhabitants had then left Canton. Another, dated the 11th, says that 60,000 troops had arrived from the Northern provinces, and it was currently reported that secret but extensive preparations had been made to attack the English. In consequence of these rumors two of the British men of war had been brought up, and anchored near the city. It was said that in case of an attack by the Chinese, the officer in command of the ships had orders to bombard the city.

Commodore Bremer had not yet arrived from Calcutta, and we know that Sir Henry Pottinger was still on his way from England. It is not at all probable that any active measures would be taken by the English before the arrival of one or both of these officers, unless rendered necessary by some movement on the part of the Chinese. On the other hand, as the Chinese undoubtedly knew that Commodore Bremer was bringing reinforcements, they might be tempted to make a push at the enemy before his arrival.

Steamboat Accidents on the Western Waters.—The Cincinnati Republican give a list of the accidents to steamboats on the Western waters, which have come under its notice, from January 1st to September 1st, by which it appears that twenty two were snagged, nine sunk or injured by collision, four burned, two burst their boilers. The estimated loss by these is $1,800,000. The above, it is said, do not include more than two-thirds of the accidents which have happened in the months as stated above.

SHOCKING MURDER.

MR. SAMUEL ADAMS, printer, of No. 59 Gold street, New York, mysterious disappeared on Friday, the 17th inst., and from his known character, tears were entertained that he had been foully dealt with, as his circumstances did not, for a moment, admit the supposition of his having voluntarily absented himself. These fears were last Sunday horribly realized, his body having been discovered, and his presumed murderer, John C. Colt, author of a work on Book keeping, arrested and fully committed. We take the following account of the particulars from the N. Y. Tribune of Monday morning:

"Our city has again been the theatre of a most startling and murderous tragedy. The less horrible in its details than the hideous outrage and murder of Miss Mary Rogers, it yet awakens in the public mind as deep a thrill of dread excitement and indignation by its black atrocity, as did that terrible event. We give below all the well authenticated circumstances which have come to light respecting it.

Our readers may remember that on Friday, the 17th inst., Mr. Samuel Adams, printer, at the corner of Ann and Gold streets, residing at 11 Elizabeth street, was missed from his home, and from that day no trace of him could be found. He was said to have called on that day at the office of the Missionary Herald, where he stated his intention of going to a store in Canal street, which he never reached. A notice of his disappearance was published on Wednesday last in the Tribune and copied in various papers, with a request that any one who had seen or heard of him would give information thereof to his friends. This notice called forth the following narration, given to the Mayor by Mr. Wheeler, teacher of a writing academy in a room in the second story of the large granite building on the northwest corner of Chambers street and Broadway. His room is in the corner, looking into both Broadway and Chambers street; next to it is the room of a Mr. J. C. Colt, the author of a work on Book keeping, and brother of the well known inventor of repeating fire arms. In this room, on the Friday afternoon of Mr. Adams's disappearance, at about 4 o'clock, Mr. Wheeler, who was engaged with his pupils, heard a scuffle which lasted for a few moments, and was followed by the fall of a heavy body upon the floor. All noise instantly ceased.

Thinking this somewhat singular, Mr. Wheeler left his room, knocked several times at Colt's door, but received no answer. He then looked in at the key hole, and saw two hats upon the table, and a man, whom from his dress and appearance he judged to be Colt, busily engaged apparently in washing the floor. He returned for a considerable time, and on returning, saw the same thing. Colt being still engaged upon the floor. He requested one of his pupils, whom he always employs as an assistant teacher, to watch until Colt should go out. The young man remained all night, and, on looking, saw Colt similarly employed at several different times.

Early in the morning he saw Colt set outside his door a box about four feet square, directed to some person at "St. Louis via New Orleans." Colt then went out and soon returned, shortly after a carman came and took away the box, Colt going with him. The young man watched no farther, but reported these occurrences to Mr. Wheeler, who supposed the box to contain some of Colt's property, which it was thought he intended to remove, and thought little further of it. A day or two afterward, however, Wheeler got into Colt's room, and saw several places which had apparently been severely scrubbed and then smeared with ink; he found also, a broken looking-glass and a hatchet the handle of which had been scraped and covered with ink. There were also upon the wall spots of the same liquid.

On Wednesday morning, seeing a notice of Mr. Adams's disappearance, and being suspicious, from knowing that Colt was indebted to Adams, that his mysterious absence might be connected with the noise he had heard and the appearances he had noticed, he gave information of them to Mr. Mayor Morais, who forthwith commenced an investigation which he has continued with most laudable zeal and activity. On Friday he sent officers Smith and Walker to arrest Colt. They found his room locked, and went into a short time when Colt came in, went to his door, and with a key was about entering it, when officer Smith sprang upon and seized him, telling him that he "wanted him." Colt asked him "what for," and Smith answered that he would tell him directly. He was brought before the Mayor, and on being interrogated, said that he was not at his room on the Friday night referred to, and availed no knowledge of any box having left his room. He was, however, committed for further examination.

On Saturday the Mayor advertised for the carman who took away the box, and directed William F. Godfrey, Superintendent of Hacks and Cabs, to endeavor to discover him. Mr. Godfrey immediately addressed himself to his task, and found a carman named Russell, who came willingly before the Mayor and testified that on the Saturday previous he was employed and paid by Colt for taking the box, directed as mentioned above, to the ship Kalamazoo, lying at the foot of Maiden lane. He further testified that Colt accompanied him and took a receipt for the delivery of the box on board. Upon asking this, the Mayor, with his officers, went on board the vessel, which was about to sail, looked from the Mate the same facts that had been stated by Russell, and took immediate measures to detain the ship. Yesterday the hatches were opened in presence of the Mayor, and at 1 o'clock P. M. the box was found in the forward hold of the ship and placed upon deck. It was there opened: upon the top was a piece of sail-cloth, beneath which, sprinkled with salt and chloride of lime, was a dead body. The box was immediately closed and taken to the dead-house, and there locked up.

At 3 o'clock the Coroner's jury was summoned, and at half past three the box was brought into their presence, and a post-mortem examination executed upon the body by Drs. Gilman, Kissam and others. The body when taken out, had no clothing upon it but a shirt. Around the neck was tightly fastened a thick cord, which was passed down in front and tied about the knee joints, thus drawing them up close upon the breast. At the bottom of the box was a black coat without pocket flaps or lapels, and considerably torn, and a neck stock, across which was a cut. Upon these, wrapped about with a piece of sail cloth and bits of oakum, and other rubbish, was the body, doubled up as above mentioned, and tightly crowded down. The body, upon examination, was found to be in a state of advanced decomposition; the whole frontal bone of the forehead, with part of the temporal bone, was beaten upon the brain; the right parietal bone was likewise fractured, and the left separated from the rest of the skull and driven completely into the brain. One cheek bone was fractured, and there was a deep wound in the back of the head. There was also a cut upon the side of the chin which matched perfectly with the cut in the stock. Upon a finger on the right hand was a small ring. The features were so entirely decayed, and the countenance so disfigured that the body could not well be identified; but Mrs. Adams testified that as nearly as she could judge from the ring and coat, the body is that of her husband. A scar upon the leg is also a mark of identification. A watch, known to have belonged to Mr. Adams, as he repeatedly attempted to sell it, has been found in the trunk of Colt at his lodgings in Monroe street, near Market.

Colt is known to have been indebted to Adams to a considerable amount for printing his work on book keeping, and it is understood that the latter had some trouble in securing his pay. Colt was about to ship a box of his books to Philadelphia and employed a third person to do this and to receive the money in his stead. This third person, we understand, was told by Adams that the money for the books was to be paid to him as Colt was in his debt. The former mentioned this to Colt who denied it, and said he himself must receive the money. On meeting Adams, on the fatal Friday, the third person told him what was said by Colt, remarking that he was sure Colt meant to cheat him of his money. Adams remarked that he should take care of that as he meant to see Colt about it. He was last seen that day going up Broadway, near the corner of Chambers street.

At a late hour last night the Coroner's jury returned as their verdict that the body was that of Mr. Samuel Adams, and that, in their belief, he came to his death by blows inflicted by J. C. Colt.

The above are all the material facts that have come to our knowledge concerning this most atrocious murder. They carry with them their own comment. Mr. Adams was originally from Providence. His parents are both dead, but most of his relatives still live in that city. He had a wife but no children. He came to this city some seven or eight years since, and worked for a while as journeyman printer. Soon afterward he entered in partnership with a Scotchman named Scatchard and under the name of Scatchard & Adams, they carried on business together as job and book printers. His partner soon died and he continued the business in his own name. He lost nearly all his property, partly by fire and partly by the failure of those who owed him, and was in debt some $5000 at the time of his death. He was an honest, industrious, temperate and religious man, highly respected by all who knew him.

Mr. Adams was originally from Providence, having served his apprenticeship in the office of Messrs. Smith & Parmenter, and was at the time of his death about 30 years of age.

THE TRIAL OF COLT.—The Grand Jury of the Court of Oyer and Terminer having found a true bill against John C. Colt for the murder of Samuel Adams, the accused was yesterday taken from the City Prison and brought, heavily ironed, into the chamber of the Assistant Aldermen. His irons were here taken off, and he was conducted into Court, before Judge Kent and Aldermen Woodhull and Leonard, to plead to the indictment. His Counsel however moved the Court for a postponement of the plea until Wednesday (this) morning, when he will be called upon to plead guilty or not guilty to the indictment. At the request of Counsel, a copy of the indictment was ordered to be furnished them. Colt was then re-ironed, his irons again put on him and he conducted to prison. His appearance is that of a man struggling with intense energy to stifle terrible feelings that seem to vex his soul; and this continued contest with his own heart has already given to his countenance a haggard and most repulsive aspect. He is continually attempting to converse with his jailer about the murder, and has been repeatedly checked by him when apparently on the point of making disclosures which would be greatly against him on his trial.

ARREST OF ONE OF THE MURDERERS OF MARY C. ROGERS.—On Monday, James Finnegan, a lowly, of confirmed reprobity, was arrested in this city by officer Lampkins, of the New York police under information amounting nearly to certainty, that he is one of the wretches who committed the outrage and murder on Mary C. Rogers.

It seems that the New York police have already two or three of the gang in custody; that one of them confessed to the crime, and implicated Finnegan; and that the keeper of a house, to which they were in the habit of resorting, informed the police of F.'s whereabouts, he having quitted the city immediately after the murder. It is stated that the gang consisted of six or seven persons, whose a trocious in various forms are familiar in the police annals; that two of them were known to Mary Rogers, and meeting her in the street on the morning of her murder invited her to a sail to Hoboken, saying that they had hired a boat with oarsmen; that she accompanied them; was enticed, unsuspecting, to a retired part of the shore, and there, after the accomplishment of their hellish purposes, brutally murdered.

Finnegan, when arrested, wore a ring which is said to have been identified as one belonging to Mary Rogers. The Argus says that he is one of the gang who about a year since committed a gross outrage upon a young girl in this city.

OHIO RIVER.—The Ohio river is now so low that navigation is nearly suspended for steamboats. Keel boats and steamers of light draft of water continue to run between Portsmouth and Louisville, with dry goods, &c.

President's Proclamation.

The Washington papers of Monday, contain the following Proclamation:—
BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS it has come to the knowledge of the Government of the United States that sundry secret Lodges, Clubs, or Associations, exist on the Northern Frontier; that the members of these lodges are bound together by secret oaths; that they have collected fire-arms and other military materials, and secreted them in sundry places; and that it is their purpose to violate the laws of their country by making military and lawless incursions, when opportunity shall offer, into the Territories of a Power with which the U. States are at peace; and whereas it is known that travelling agitators, from both sides of the line, visit these Lodges, and harangue the members in secret meetings, stimulating them to illegal acts; and whereas the same persons are known to levy contributions on the ignorant and credulous for the their own benefit, thus supporting and enriching themselves by the basest means; and whereas the unlawful intentions of the members of these Lodges have already been manifested in an attempt to destroy the lives and property of the inhabitants of Chippewa, in Canada, and the public property of the British Government (therebeing: Now, therefore, I, JOHN TYLER, President of the United States, do issue this my proclamation, admonishing all such evil-minded persons of the condign punishment which is certain to overtake them; assuring them that the laws of the U. States will be rigorously executed against their illegal acts; and that if in any lawless incursion into Canada they fall into the hands of the British authorities they will not be reclaimed as American citizens nor any interference made by this Government in their behalf.

And I exhort all well-meaning but deluded persons who have joined these Lodges immediately to abandon them, and to have nothing more to do with their secret meetings, or unlawful oaths, as they would avoid serious consequences to themselves. And I expect the intelligent and well disposed members of the community to bring on all these unlawful combinations & illegal proceedings, and to assist the Government in maintaining the peace of the country against the mischievous consequences of the acts of these violators of the law.

Given under my hand, at the city of Washington, the 25 day of September, A. D. one thousand eight hundred [1841] and forty one, and of the Independence of the U. States the 66th.

JOHN TYLER.

By the President:

DANIEL WEBSTER, Secretary of State.

The Washington Madisonian of Monday, says:—

"The state of fact upon which the President's timely proclamation [in reference to the 'patriot' movements on the frontier,] is predicated, would astonish the people of the United States, were the details spread before them. To say the least, they indicate the necessity of great prudence and judgment to preserve the peace of the country."

ABDUCTION ON THE LINE.—The Burlington Vermont Free Press speaks of a shameful and outrageous act of abduction by a party of Canadian Refugees, beyond doubt without the knowledge or consent of the British Government. It appears at a very unpropitious moment.

"The circumstances were as follows: Last night (September 19th) about two or three o'clock an armed force (from the other side of the line) of some 12 or 15 men entered the house of a Mr. Brown, in search of one James Grogan who had arrived at Brown's (a brother in law of his) the previous evening; they first entered the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Brown who immediately raised an alarm for a hired man and a son of Mr. B. then in their lodging room, the mob immediately placed a bayonet at each of their breasts; threatening that if they uttered another word they would run them through; as soon as they found their mistake they then entered the room occupied by Grogan—gagged him, and dragged him from his bed to a wagon in the street, and made off with him towards the lines, leaving all his clothes, a hat, bayonet, and a handkerchief behind. These are all the facts to be obtained here. I am told that the cause of this treatment to Grogan is that he was connected with the firing of buildings on this frontier in the late rebellion.

"By a gentleman direct from the scene of this outrage, we learn that Mr. Grogan was severely wounded in his attempts to escape, having his thigh run through with a bayonet, and a serious injury inflicted in his side. This occurred about 4 miles this side the line."

DEATH OF NICHOLAS BROWN.—We discharge a melancholy office, in announcing to the public the departure from this life of the Hon. Nicholas Brown, senior Partner of the house of Messrs. Brown & Ives. He died at his mansion in this city, at half past 3 o'clock, yesterday morning, in the 73rd year of his age. The death of a man so eminent for private and public virtue, will create in this community, a sensation of no common sorrow. Here he was born; here he passed the whole of his long and useful life; and here are to be found the most conspicuous monuments of his munificence in the cause of Religion and Learning.

The Banks.

The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser of Tuesday, has the following article:—

Robbery of the Herkimer County Bank.

We have to add another to the catalogue of bank robberies which are adding to the disgrace of the country, and shaking the confidence of the community in the integrity of mankind in general.—On Saturday evening, at about 8 o'clock, Mr. Anson C. Brown, a young man aged 21, book keeper of the Herkimer County Bank, at the village of Little Falls, went to the house of the cashier of the bank for the key of the guard lock of the bank, to enable him to cash a couple of checks for merchants of the village, who wanted the funds before the bank would open on Monday (this morning.) Having attended to this business, the clerk returned the key to the cashier, and all appeared to be right.

Yesterday morning, however, a brother of Mr. Brown, missing the latter, and discovering that he must have changed his clothes in the night, on searching the pantaloons which he had thrown off, found a note addressed to himself, in which his abrupt departure was announced. It also contained an order upon the cashier for the balance due upon his salary. Young Brown immediately hastened to the cashier, whose suspicions were immediately awakened, and on repairing to the bank, it was discovered that the guard-lock had been left unlocked when the key was returned to him the preceding evening. As the master keys of the bank were placed in a private drawer, access to every part of it was perfectly easy; and it was soon discovered that the bank had been robbed to the amount of more than SEVENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS! The amount taken was thus made up—bills of the bank 61000 dollars; gold, 2,200 dollars; bills of the Ontario Bank at Utica, 1000 dollars; and the residue in bills of other banks.

The next discovery was that Brown had left the village in the night train, for Albany accompanied by Francis Francis, and Tobias Green, Journeyman printers, engaged in the office of the Mohawk Courier. All these discoveries were made before the arrival of the 9 o'clock train of cars yesterday morning from Utica. Several gentlemen took this train for Albany in pursuit. The traces of the fugitives were discovered in Albany, where they arrived very early yesterday morning, in the expectation of taking the morning boat for this city. But there being no morning line from Albany on Sundays, they were foiled in this design.

Their next move was to charter an extra coach for Hudson, for the purpose probably, of availing themselves of a chance steamer, or of setting their faces toward Boston by the Hudson & Stockbridge railroad and thence to Springfield and Boston. The pursuers divided at Albany yesterday afternoon, some of them striking express to Stockbridge, and the others embarking in the South America steamer for this city. In the course of the night a steamer from Hudson was overtaken, boarded, and searched, but the robbers were not on board. The probability, therefore, is, that they have gone the other route to Boston.

ARREST OF THE BANK ROBBERS.—As we anticipated, the robbers of the Herkimer County Bank have been arrested. They were brought to this city yesterday by deputy sheriff John D. Livingston, who with Mr. Charles Webster of this city, went in pursuit of the fugitives on the evening of Sunday with a warrant for their arrest. Mr. L. took the road from this city to Sandy Hill, thinking, and as the result proved, correctly, that they would make tracks for Canada. At Sandy Hill, where they arrived yesterday morning, nothing could be heard of them or of the wagon in which they left this city. At this place they were joined by Mr. Burch, the deputy sheriff of Herkimer county, who was also in pursuit, but without success. Burch, leaving Livingston and Webster at Sandy Hill, crossed the river at that place and took the road toward Saratoga Springs. About 3 miles from Sandy Hill, Burch met a stage which had left Saratoga that morning, in which he discovered the fugitives; he went with the stage to Sandy Hill, where they were arrested by Livingston and searched, and the entire of the money, excepting $500 or $600, recovered.

It appears that the fugitives left this city on Sunday morning in a wagon hired at the livery stable of Mr. Jewell, and driven by a brother of one of the fugitives. They took the road to Schenectady, thence to Saratoga, and were proceeding toward Sandy Hill, when one of the horses in the wagon foundered and they were obliged to abandon it. They walked to Griswold's tavern, about six miles from Sandy Hill, where they passed the night. From this place they took the stage, and were arrested as before stated at Sandy Hill, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. On parting with the driver, Green, they gave him two bundles of notes of the value of $250 each, in addition to which his brother gave him some $20 or $30. The driver has not yet been met with, but he cannot long avoid the pursuit made after him.

On their arrival in this city they were taken to the jail and gave their names Anson C. Brown, clerk of the bank, Tobias T. Green, printer, and W. G. Francis, or Francis. They were examined before the proper authorities, and are now confined in separate cells. Whether the prosecutors will remove them to Herkimer county for trial, or allow them to remain here and try them at the ensuing Oyer and Terminer, we are not advised.

Albany Advertiser.

NAVY RECEPTION OF THE PRINCE DE JOUVILLE.—The reception of the Prince De Juville by the officers of our navy, has been marked with all the courtesy due to so distinguished a visitor. On the arrival of La Belle Poule a salute was fired—which was promptly returned by the United States ship North Carolina.—The Prince soon after visited the North Carolina, and the visit was next day returned by Commodore Perry, who in the meantime had directed the civilities of the port, and the conveniences of the dock yard to be rendered for the use of the Prince's ships.

On Saturday, agreeable to invitation, the Prince visited the Navy Yard and Brooklyn, where a salute of 21 guns was fired on his arrival. A full garrison of marines and a volunteer company, who had handsomely offered their services, were drawn up in the yard to receive him, the band playing a national air, and the tri colored flag flying on the ships of war. After visiting the commandant's quarters and receiving the hospitalities of the Navy, the Prince visited the ships in ordinary, and the steamer Missouri, the workshops, rope-walks, &c.—with all of which he expressed himself highly pleased, and with the general arrangements of the yard. On leaving the yard, a salute due to the naval rank of the Prince was fired, which was duly acknowledged on his arrival on board La Belle Poule.

Rail Road Accident.

The Boston Transcript of Saturday says: "An accident occurred on the Providence Rail Road as the train was coming in this morning. The train ran off the track near the Ruggles street crossing in Roxbury, in consequence of a rail being loose. The engineer, Mr. G. G. field, is the only person seriously injured—his wrist is broken—a passenger, whose name I could not learn, is very slightly bruised. The engine and cars are very much broken up—the train was going at a high speed, and it is a matter of great surprise that the passengers were not very much injured. The other person injured is Mr. Grigg, but not seriously."

Doings in Texas—More Wholesale Lynching.

A week or two ago, says the Natchitoches Herald, we gave an account of the trial one Jackson, in Harrison county, Texas, for murder; of the manner in which he was tried; how he was acquitted and how he and some of his friends then seized the county judge, McHenry, and brought him into Natchitoches, where he is now in jail, awaiting his trial, under an indictment for carrying off negroes from that parish. It now appears that when Jackson returned to Texas, he was attacked and killed by four or five friends of McHenry; and they, in their turn, have been captured and hung, without any ceremony, by the friends of Jackson! Where is this bloody tragedy to end!

JAMAICA.—We are sorry to perceive by the Jamaica papers, that the mortality in that island during the last six months, has been greater than has occurred before during the same period in the last 10 or 15 years, and that the yellow fever has raged there and been particularly fatal to the new recruits and emigrants who had arrived. The Kingston Despatch says:—"We trust these rare and unwelcome visitations will soon pass away, and that revived verdure, and restored health, will once more give, hope, vigor, and activity to those who have survived the pressure of death and disease, to enable them to look forward with some confidence to future years of renewed success and prosperity."

When people have expended much time and money in the cultivation of choice fruit, nothing is more vexatious and irritating than to be plundered of it. A robbery of money, to the same value is far less annoying. In a populous place, like this, where such things must necessarily be exposed to the observation of multitudes of people if their sense of propriety and justice does not restrain them from pilfering it, there seems to be no remedy for the evil but to enforce the provisions of the law.—Mass. Spy.

STEAMBOAT SUNK.

The steamboat Baltic, bound from Orleans for St. Louis with a full cargo of merchandise, about three o'clock on Wednesday morning, the 15th inst., came in contact with the steamboat Maid of Kentucky, bound down. The Bulletin states that the two boats struck each other stern on—the Baltic sunk immediately, and is a total loss; the crew and passengers saving themselves in the boat. The bow of the Maid of Kentucky was cloven in twain, but having a water-proof bulk head, she was enabled to float, and was run head on upon a sand bar, where her cargo was so shifted that she was enabled to come to port.

Outrage in the Capitol Garden.—We have just been informed by Mr. Mahon the public gardener, that in the course of Monday night, some ill-disposed persons went into the beautiful garden attached to the Capitol and destroyed a great number of valuable plants and flowers, such as cabbage stocks, &c. Besides setting in this outrageous manner, the plants cut and carried away not less than 1500 of the choice dahlias which have been raised with so much care, and which were so beautiful and ornamental to the public grounds.

National Intelligencer.

It will be seen by a notice in our Advertising columns that Mr. Parkut proposes to deliver lectures on Physiology and Phrenology. This gentleman has visited many of our principal towns, and brings ample testimonials of his ability to lecture on the subjects.

We understand that the steamer Babylon, Capt. Woolsey, has discontinued her trips between this place and Providence, for the season.

MURDER IN NEW YORK.—Our readers will find in the preceding columns, the particulars of one of the foulest murders ever recorded. The fearful crimes that are daily committed in that city, exhibit a laxity of morals that must be deeply deplored by every philanthropist.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE, and Repository of useful knowledge.—This is the title of a new monthly Journal, published simultaneously in Albany, New-York and Boston. From the numbers we have seen, we should judge very favourably of the work, it is edited by an association of literary gentlemen, and has a beautiful steel engraving in each number.—Mr. Wm. A. Fry, No 1 Colonnade row is the Agent for this town.

We are requested to state, that an Examination, and Public Address will be given at the Public School-House in Mill street, on Monday Afternoon next, which Parents and others interested, are desired to attend.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.—A lady named Bongo residing in Montreal, fell from the second story window of her house, on the stone pavement below, on Wednesday and was taken up senseless, her head being horribly mutilated. It appears that Mrs. Bongo went to the window to ascertain the state of the weather, and was leaning upon the sash, when the fastenings gave way, and she was precipitated into the street. The lady notwithstanding the severe injuries which she has received, is said to be in a fair way of recovery.

HERCULEANUM.—The excavations into Herculeanum, have revealed us a world of information. The history of the dead citizens of Herculeanum with all their luxuries around them. As yet we have not however penetrated in the very depths and inmost recesses of this slumbering repository of past ages. The philosophers of our day have therefore resolved to dig down to the very foundation stones of this mysterious seat of antiquity.

The undertaking we learn is to be carried on by the Neapolitan government.—Negotiations have been commenced already for the purchase of various estates on the spot. A commission of antiquarians and architects are to be appointed by the Minister of the Interior and the Royal Academy of sciences, to preside over the operations of the workmen.

We shall wait in anxiety to hear of the many marvellous relics that will be brought to light, that have not been visited by the sun's beams for many by-gone centuries. Phil Gaz.

SELF-MARRYING.—A curious instance of profligate hypocrisy on one side and simplicity on the other was exhibited on Monday, before the Police Court of Boston. A German named Hahnholz, officiating as pastor of a German congregation, was brought up on a charge of immorality. The witness against him was a German girl named Regina Hahnholz, who deposed in substance that Hahnholz met her in the street—offered to find a place at which she could go into service—took her to his boarding house—made love to her—persuaded her that he was authorized to marry himself to her—took her into his room and made a prayer, which he represented as equivalent to the marriage ceremony, and then made her accompany him to Salem, where they passed the night as man and wife.

Returning the next day he locked her up in his room and kept her from Friday to Sunday morning, when he took her to Church and preached as usual. The poor girl was firmly convinced that she was lawfully married to her betrayer. We presume that the upshot of the matter will be a more efficient marriage security act.

The United States Bank.—The whole number of suits brought against the United States Bank since the first of January, in the present year, is about one hundred and eighty. The judgments given against it, in the last nine months, in the District Court alone, are upwards of one hundred, for various amounts varying from one hundred to one hundred thousand dollars. Besides these, between fifty and sixty judgments have, in the same period, been given against it, in the Court of Common Pleas, for various amounts, from ten dollars to one hundred dollars.—Gouge's Journal of Banking.

ASNAKY MONOMACH.—There is now living at Milton, Mass., an elderly man, named Bent, who labors under the hallucination that he has not breathed for ten years and that he has in his stomach a live catfish. He imagines that he will never die as long as the snake remains in him. He is of a very religious turn of mind—with an amiable temper and communicative disposition.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—In West Suffield, Ct. last Tuesday week, a man by the name of More came to his death, under the following melancholy circumstances. He was at the bottom of a well for the purpose of clearing it out; after he had been in the well a short time the earth near the bottom of the well caved in, and nearly covered him beneath it. Some persons at the top, perceiving his critical situation, lowered a ladder to him, and he was able to climb up. He was then taken to the bottom of the well, and covered him entirely up. This being in the afternoon, the man was left in this situation until the next morning, when about two hundred men collected, and dug around the well several feet, and succeeded in taking him from the earth about 12 o'clock; his neck was broken, which probably caused instant death after the earth fell in the second time.—Northampton Courier.

PAWTUCKET FAIR.—The annual Cattle show and Fair of the R. I. Society for the Encouragement of Domestic Industry takes place at Pawtucket on Wednesday next, Oct. 6th. The Rev. Dr. WATSON, will deliver an address on the occasion. Liberal premiums have been offered for articles of excellence in the several departments of agriculture, manufactures, &c. The Providence Journal says, "more than usual interesting occasion is anticipated."

A number of the colored people of Cincinnati, have determined, in consequence of the late riots in that city, to remove to Liberia, with their effects. The emigrants will include some of the most respectable colored people of the city; many of them men of considerable property.

POETRY.

LOSSES.

BY MRS. ARDY.

"In all losses I would have a double prospect
I would consider what I had lost, and I would have regard to what I have left. It may be in my loss that I find a benefit: I may be rid with it of a trouble, a snare, or a danger."
Owen Feltham.

What has thou lost? the early spring of youth;
The season of rash wishes, feverish dreams;
Vain follies, ending in regret and ruth,
Joys and afflictions known in wild extremes,
What hast thou gained? the feelings calm and sage,
The tranquil haven of maturer age;
Thy bark of life no more is tempest-tossed,
Then weep not for the phantoms thou hast lost.

What hast thou lost? thy stores of shining gold,
The means to dazzle with gay pomp thy eyes,
To mock thy ears with flatteries false and cold,
And cheat thy senses with false luxuries,
Earth's glittering baubles lay at thy control,
Yet wait thou slowly perilling thy soul;
Now vanished is thy wealth—thy projects crossed—
Thy power to tread temptation's maze is lost.

What hast thou lost? the guests whose wit beguile
Thy mirthful hours, whose presence crowned the feast,
Who sought and praised thee while thy fortunes smiled,
And left thee when their fitful blaze had ceased.
True friendship rests not on the dreary board—
It seeks the lowly roof, the frugal board;
Now hast thou purchased wisdom at cheap cost,
Thy friends thou hast regained—thy flatterers lost.

What hast thou lost? oh! canst thou ever lose
The boon that long ago for thee was won?
Turn thee from life's poor vanities, and muse
On the dear mercies of God's blessed Son.
Not in the gear of power on earth He came—
He dwelt in poverty, neglect and shame;
Oh! were thy rebel thoughts by him engrossed,
Couldst thou then mourn the nothings thou hast lost?

Thy youth has passed with all its idle mirth—
Thy wealth with all its anxious care has flown;
False sycophants no more profane thy hearth,
The calm of holy quiet is thine own.
And thou shouldst rise each earthly ill above,
Dwelling alone upon a Saviour's love,
Who left the starry skies and heavenly host,
To save the sinful and redeem the lost.

HARVEST SONG.

Ho! rouse ye lads!—the morning breeze
Has swept the mist from the stream,
And afar on the hills, the towering trees
Are tipped with day's first beam.
The stars are gone—the night has fled,
And the lark has hailed the day;
Arouse ye, then, while the morn is red—
Away to the fields—away!

To us no music sounds more sweet
Than the sharpening clang of the scythe,
And echoing hills with gladness greet
The song of the reaper blithe.
How pleasant to follow with rake in hand,
The mower's devoted way,
And scatter abroad with lightsome wand,
The green and perfumed hay!

Let the soldier exult in the pomp of war,
The king in his self-throned hall;
The freeter farmer is happier far
Than kings, and lords, and all.
His are no fields with carnage red,
And drenched with blood of slain,
But hills and vales o'er which is spread
A harvest of waving grain.

The summer sun, o'er valley and plain,
Has shed his genial ray;
Till smiling acres of golden grain—
Await the harvest day;
And into the borders we will not fail,
To carry the war "to the knife";
And eager, too, as the cradle and flail,
To be wielded in bloodless strife.

Then up, and away! while the diamond dew
Bespangles the beading corn;
And gaily we labor, while we woo,
The bracing breath of morn.
And under the shade of the beeches green,
We'll rest at noon of day;
Hurrah! for the sickle and scythe so keen,
Away to the fields—away!

AGRICULTURAL.

SALT & ASHES MIXED FOR STOCK.

Last winter (says a correspondent of the Farmers Journal.) I saw it recommended in an agricultural paper, to mix salt with ashes for stock. Having tested the utility of the practice, I am now prepared to speak favorably of it, and from a firm conviction that stock, of all descriptions, are essentially benefited thereby. My cows, working-horses, and young cattle, as well as sheep, have been regularly supplied with it as often as once in a week since the snow went off, and notwithstanding the feed in pastures has been quite short, in consequence of drought, for a large part of the season, the animals are healthy and generally in better condition than we have known them for years.

Sheep especially are fond of it, preferring it to pure salt, and eating it as eagerly as they do meal or corn. As to the general efficacy of the practice and its tendency as it respects the health of stock, I would say in conclusion, that I am acquainted with several farmers that have made the same trial, and that no instance with which I am acquainted, has been attended with other than the best effects. The other proportions in which the ingredients should be given, are one part salt to seven of ashes. The salt should be fine, and the ashes dry and free from coals. Try it, farmers, and see if it doth not "do good like a medicine."

THE MOST HIGHLY APPROVED MEDICINE NOW IN GENERAL USE FOR COUGHS, COLDS, AND all diseases of the Lungs.

THE VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM is believed to be deservedly the most popular Medicine ever known in America, for coughs, colds, asthma or phthisis, consumption, whooping cough, and Pulmonary affections of every kind.

The Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam has been very extensively used for about 15 years; and its reputation has been constantly increasing. So universally popular has this article become that it may now be considered as a standard article in a large part of the United States and British Provinces. Many families keep it constantly by them, considering it the most safe as well as certain remedy for the above complaints. The Proprietors have received from many of our best Physicians, who make use of it in their practice. The names of a few individuals who have given their testimony in favor of this article, are here subjoined, and for a more full account see the envelope to the bottle.

Dr. Amory Hunting, Dr. Samuel Morrill, Truman Abell, Timothy Hayles, Jere. Ellsworth, Albert Guild.

CERTIFICATES.

From Dr. Thomas Brown.
Messrs Lowe & Reed, Gent.—The Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam, has been extensively used, in the section of the country where I reside, for several years past, and has justly acquired a high reputation in consumptive complaints. So far as my knowledge extends it has never disappointed the reasonable expectation of those who have used it.

THOMAS BROWN, M. D.
Concord, N. H. May 11, 1831.

Messrs Reed, Wing & Cutler—Gentlemen—I feel it a duty I owe the public, and especially to hundreds of my fellow beings who are now suffering under different diseases of the lungs, to give you a statement of the good effects I have experienced from the use of the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam. Having from my youth been troubled with different complaints of the lungs, such as spitting of blood, a dry troublesome cough, frequent hoarseness, with severe fits of coughing, and indeed all the symptoms of consumption, and from time to time I have consulted several eminent Physicians, and have taken much medicine, but I received little or no relief, and at last they told me there was no help for me; that my case was beyond the reach of their medicines. In the spring of 1827 I was advised by a friend to try the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam. I obtained two bottles, and on trial I was surprised to find so sudden and effectual relief which it gave me; and after using it about 5 weeks all my complaints were entirely removed, and I was restored to good health. Since that time I have kept it constantly by me, in case of the appearance of any of the above complaints. I have known a large number of cases where all other medicines have failed of affording any relief, the Balsam was at length resorted to, & speedily effected a cure. I would therefore recommend to every person that has any of the above complaints, on their first appearance to take the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam, which they will find a safe, convenient and positive cure. Respect yours,
T. P. MERRIAM.
New Bedford, Mass, July 30, 1841.

Counterfeits, Beware of Imposition! Each genuine bottle is enclosed in a blue wrapper, on which is a yellow label, signed by Wm. JONN CUTLER. None other can be genuine of a later date than Decem. 1839. The Signature of Sampson Reed will be continued for a short time.

The great celebrity of the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam has been the cause of attempts to introduce spurious articles which by partially assuming the name of the genuine, are calculated to mislead and deceive the public. Among these mixtures are "Carter's Compound Pulmonary Balsam," "American Pulmonary Balsam," "Vegetable Pulmonary Balsamic Syrup," "Pulmonary Balsam," and others. Purchasers should enquire for the true article by its whole name—The Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam, and see that it has the marks and signatures of the genuine.

Each bottle and seal is stamped "The Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam."

For sale by REED, WING & CUTLER, (late Lowe & Reed) wholesale dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Lamps and Dye Stuffs, No. 54, Chatham Street, Boston, and by Druggists and country merchants generally in New England, and in the principal places throughout the United States and British Provinces.—Price 50 cents. ## PURE EXTRACT OF SPANISH Sarsaparilla.

Wm. BROWN chemist No. 81 Washington street Boston has prepared a liquid extract of Sarsaparilla by a steam process without boiling the root. It is an entire new preparation of Sarsaparilla never before prepared in this or any other country. It has been in constant use for the past six months by some of the first physicians in Boston, and all those who wish to go through a regular course of Sarsaparilla treatment can be referred to them. The preparation contains no other article than the pure Spanish Sarsaparilla, and one great improvement over all other preparations of Sarsaparilla is not reduced by adding sugar to form a syrup. This article is well adapted to the practice of physicians, as they can learn by calling on the proprietor, the quantity of Sarsaparilla contained in each bottle.—The quantity required is small compared with the Syrup. It is the cheapest preparation of Sarsaparilla now in use, considering its strength. Price 62 1-2 cts per bottle. Dealers & families can be supplied with this valuable article as above. It will be found at retail by most of the druggists throughout the U. States.

A copyright is secured for the directions and each direction signed Wm. Brown on the outside.

The above article is a sure remedy for all complaints occasioned by an impure state of the blood, diseases of the skin, scrofula, rheumatism, salt rheum, erysipelas, and to remove the effect of calomel.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS, And PHENIX BITTERS

MOFFAT'S VEGETABLE LIFE MEDICINES.—These Medicines are indebted for their name to their author, first and sensible action in purifying the springs and channels of life, and enduing them with renewed tone and vigor. In many hundred certified cases which have been made public, and almost every species of disease to which the human frame is liable, the happy effects of MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND PHENIX BITTERS have been gratefully and publicly acknowledged by the persons benefited, and who were previously unacquainted with the bountiful philosophical principles upon which they are compounded, and which they consequently act.

The LIFE MEDICINES recommend themselves in diseases of every form and description. Their first operation is to loosen from the coats of the stomach and bowels, the various impurities and cruelties constantly settling around them, and to remove the hardened faeces which collect in the convolutions of the small intestine. Other medicines only partially cleanse these and leave such collected masses lying behind as to produce habitual costiveness, with all its train of evils, or sudden diarrhoea with its imminent dangers. This fact is well known to all regular anatomists, who examine the human bowels after death; and hence the prejudices of those well informed men against quack medicines, or medicines prepared and heralded to the public by ignorant persons. The second effect of the Life Medicines is to cleanse the kidney and the bladder, and by this means the liver and lungs, the healthful action of which entirely depends upon the regularity of the ordinary organs. The blood which takes its red color from the agency of the liver and the lungs before it passes into the heart, being thus purified by them through the veins, renews every part of the system and triumphantly mounts the banner of health into the blooming cheek.

Moffat's Life Medicines have been the roughly tested and pronounced a sovereign remedy for Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Palpitation of the heart, Loss of appetite, Heart burn and Head ache, Restlessness, Ill temper, Anxiety, Langour and Melancholy Costiveness, Diarrhoea, Cholera, Fever, of kinds, Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsies of kinds, Sores, scrofula eruptions and bad Complexions, eruptive Complaints, sal flow, cloudy and other disagreeable complexion, salt rheum, erysipelas, common colds and influenza, and various other complaints which afflict the human frame. In FEVER and AGUE, particularly the Life Medicines have been most eminently successful, so much so that in the Fever and Ague districts, Physicians almost universally prescribe them.

All that Mr. Moffat requires of his patients, is to be particular in taking the Life Medicine strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in his favor, that he hopes to gain credit. It is alone by the result of a fair trial.

MOFFAT'S MEDICAL MANUAL, designed as a domestic guide to health.—This little pamphlet edited by W. B. Moffat 375, Broadway, New-York, has been published for the purpose of explaining more fully Mr. Moffat's theory of diseases, and will be found highly interesting to persons seeking health. It treats upon prevailing diseases, and the causes thereof. Price 25 cents—for sale by Mr. Moffat's agents generally.

These Valuable Medicines are for sale
